Made in the USA, these impact hammers make a difference. The Surestrike team of experienced industry professionals developed a quality line of mechanical impact hammers that break material without the use of drop balls or high frequency hydraulic hammers. Surestrike mechanical breakers are the simple low cost and dependable solution for breaking oversize rock, slag, concrete and in-ground rock. Benefits include no costly hammer rebuilds, high production rates, low noise level and low maintenance.

“We are thrilled to welcome in both Kemper and Old Dominion as they bring years of experience in the material processing industry and have a top-notch group of employees that exemplifies the Surestrike approach of being in service to our customers.” Jock Voelzke, President of Surestrike International.
